

Our Impacts

• Stewardship

A recent body of research found that BCM's charitable outreach services delivered almost five times greater impact than the resources put in

We take our responsibility in maximising the impact of your donation extremely seriously, and we have an excellent track record in prudent decision making and effective governance

We are recognized as a highly stable and efficient provider of social outreach, with a long tradition of improving people's lives reaching back to 1889

• Community

We want to connect with all who either need or support our services. If you feel that you would value further information on next steps, please get in touch via the channels below

If you come from a background of faith, we can also provide support from our Methodist Superintendent, Rev David Campton

We can also provide newsletters, annual reports and connection into local groups and services

BELFAST CENTRAL MISSION LEGACY GIVING

Legacy giving is the act of leaving a gift in your will after your death

For BCM, these acts of generosity enrich and deepen the impact of our social outreach. Your act of kindness now can change lives for generations to come

Your gift helps us to support

- Disadvantaged young people
- Young parents and children
- Older people with complex housing needs and experiences of isolation and loneliness
- Background operations and overheads

A Pecuniary Legacy

This involves the leaving of a specific amount of money

A Residuary Legacy

This may be a percentage or fraction of the residue of your estate after any specific bequests have been made

A Gift in Kind

This could be anything defined in writing that may be of help to the charity in future years. Examples could be property or items for the ongoing use of the charity

Tax incentive

For many, a tax free legacy is a worthwhile consideration when inheritance tax thresholds take effect. You should seek professional advice in this instance

Our Reach

We support thousands of people each year across the breadth of Northern Ireland

Our Mission

As an outworking of Christian values, we support people at their point of need in Northern Ireland, irrespective of their background, beliefs or back story.

This is done through a range of therapeutic services, from residential care and support, to counselling and social outreach

Our Giving Values

We respect and value that family and friends may come first. We can support you with information and points of contact in making these important decisions, although we will not pressure your decision in any way

We also recognize that priorities can change, and we are accountable and open along every step of the way
